

Depicting a small social network, this graph drawing represents relationships between organizations involved in drug policy making. Using colors to emphasize the subgraphs of confirmed and unconfirmed relationships, the outer ring of images shows construction phases and highlights key aspects of the drawing. The central image is a stereogram -- a two-dimensional image which, when viewed correctly, appears to be three-dimensional -- an important design concept.